Morley College

More than 11,000 students study at Morley College. The College is in the centre of London and is run especially for adults.

Verve designed and produced the Morley College web site to promote their course prospectus online. It involved detailed planning of the site structure to ensure that the 11,000 plus courses were easily accessible.

It was a requirement of the site that navigation must be clear and intuitive. Many of Morley's Students do not speak English as a first language. The site information hierarchy is very visible and users can access previous levels at any time as they travel through the site.

Morley College had a restricted budget for the project but had staff who wanted to learn how to maintain the site. Templates for each level of the sites hierarchy were built and then Verve trained a web site administrator on how to update the site. They finished the rest of the site in-house following our templates.

Verve often produce guidelines for their sites to assist web administrators in their maintenance. Guidelines explain the sitemap, hierarchy and file structure. Guidance is available on the visual style of the site. This is essential to ensure a consistent website that integrates with the organisations printed literature and marketing communications.
